

NEWS AND GOSSIP IN THE WORLD OF STAGE AND CINEMA THIS WEEK

...sh," said the bank official, pushing the actor to an anteroom. "I want my money," demanded the actor, louder than before. And he kept on yelling until he got and he was one of the few that get any money out of that particular bank. Now this incident is incorporated in "Nothing but the Truth."

When the Bishop gets stung in the stock market in this farce he gets his money back by yelling loudly for it. And the squealing of the Bishop is one of the funny incidents in "Nothing but the Truth."

On Tuesday afternoon at the Comedy Theatre the first public performance will be given by the Washington Rare Players School of the theatre. The school opened in October and so far pupils who are to appear have only a few weeks of instruction. It is planned to give one matinee for the term of the school. On Tuesday's there will be four one act plays, "The Rest Cure" and "Acid Apple"—are by Gertrude Jennings.

The stage germ gets into your system pretty enough there's nothing to humor it. At least that's the opinion of Helene Lackaye, the star of Gerstenberg's one act play "Overtones," which comes to the Theatre this week as the feature of a "Christmas Eve." Besides being successful, Lackaye is looking and witty and cordial on James Lackaye.

"I'll we talk about?" Miss Lackaye asked the caller, who was a

DAILY TALK No. 4.—Joan and France in 1919

Stronger than arms of war, more tenacious than French embattle-ments, is the spirit of holy patriotism which today is preserving eternal liberty for France. Through the smoke of battle, distinct above the roar of cannon, the figure and voice of Joan of Arc is seen and heard today. She it was who freed France from bondage in 1430; her spirit it is that is saving France in 1919.
